CBS and HMV stores off on "Rock Race"

HMV Music Stores, in conjunction with CBS Records Canada, is holding the largest contest in the retailer's history. The winner will receive a grand prize of a trip for two to London, England, a Contiki Rock Tour of London featuring Pink Floyd, The Clash, Bob Dylan and the Rolling Stones, $500.00 spending money (Canadian), and a "Rock Race" in HMV's premiere location on Oxford Circus, the largest music store in the world. To enter, contestants simply fill out a ballot at their nearest HMV Music Store. The contest began Sept. 16.

As well, the staff of all HMV stores can

Platel's battle rap spurs on Blue Jays

Toronto's Blue Jays are currently in the thick of the American League pennant battle and record marketing veteran Dave Platel has put together a catchy rap song he hopes will spur his heroes on to win the big prize. The song has already gained points, particularly with Toronto radio.

The Blue Jays Rap, written and produced by Platel and Kevan McKenzie, has been released by CBS as a part of two-song cassette, which also features the already popular OK Blue Jays song. Platel and local Toronto singer John Mays perform the rap section, while the choral background is supplied by members of the Variety Village Orchestra. All instrumentation and programming was handled by McKenzie. The performers call themselves the Variety Club Rap Gang.

As well as a fan booster, this souvenir cassette, now available at retail, is a fund-raiser for the Variety Club. Fifty cents from the sales of each tape will be donated to the Variety Club. As Platel points out, "The association between Variety Club and the Blue Jays dates back to the inception of the team. The Blue Jays organization has been extremely cooperative in getting this project off the ground, including providing their logo without a fee . . . and with the combined support of CBS and the Blue Jays, it's hoped we will raise funds for Variety for years to come."

For more information contact Platel at 416-487-3788 or Valerie Lapp at CBS 416-447-3311.

take part in a display contest. The store that "best merchandises and creates consumer awareness" for the promotion will win the same grand prize as the consumer, excluding the "Rock Race" and $500.00 spending money. Photos of the store display will be submitted to HMV Canada head office and the winning store will be drawn at Square One (Mississauga, Ontario) on Oct. 16/89. After the winning store has been announced, all full-time staff members, the assistant manager and the managers' names will be placed in a draw. The first two names drawn will be off to England with the consumer contest winners. All other staff members from the winning store will win Sony hardware.

A&A's Radecki elected President of RMAC

Dieter Radecki of A&A Records & Tapes has been elected the first president of the newly formed Retail Music Association of Canada. Pindoff's Jerry Wipf will serve as Vice President, Handleman's Tom Sembola as Secretary and Malcolm Perlman of Sunrise as Treasurer.

Board members for the new organization comprise Barney Samuels of National Record Sales in Winnipeg, Robert LeMay of Montreal's Trans Canada, Max Kollman of Montreal's Discus, Saturn's Leonard Kennedy, Roblan's Jason Sniderman, Stan Weiss of HMV Toronto, and Vito Ierullo of Records On Wheels.

Jeff Healey Band's debut now double platinum

Susan Desmarais, of BMG Music Canada, reports See The Light, the debut album by The Jeff Healey Band, is now double platinum in Canada. As well, the LP has just gone gold in the U.S. reflecting sales in excess of 500,000 units. Worldwide sales are over 1.1 million. The album has enjoyed 51 weeks on the RPM 100. Another achievement is the Roadhouse soundtrack, which is now heading for platinum.

Healey and his band have just capped a tour of the U.S. with Little Feat and are now wrapping up a tour of Western Canada. After more dates in the U.S. through October, the band will begin work on their next album, scheduled for a spring release.

CIRPA General Meeting set for October 4th.

CIRPA's annual General Meeting will take place Oct. 4/89 at the Variety Club, 17th floor of Toronto's Westbury Hotel. The business meeting will be restricted to CIRPA members from 6 to 7:15 pm.

A panel discussion on It's All A Question of Money - The Inside Story on the Impact of Copyright Reforms on the Music Industry, will follow from 7:45 to 8:45 pm. The panel will be open to the music industry in general. Panelists will include consultant Wanda Noel, lawyer Stephen Stohn and CMRRA counsel Paul Berry.

Basskin joins CMRRA as General Manager

David A. Basskin, B.A. LL.B has been appointed General Manager of the Canadian Musical Reproduction Rights Agency (CMRRA). Mr. Basskin is a Toronto entertainment and copyright lawyer with an extensive background in music, broadcasting and television and film production. He was educated at the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall Law School and called to the bar in 1979. He served as a Law Clerk to the Chief Justice of the High Court of Ontario before joining CTV Television Network where he worked in a series of positions related to the Network's legal corporate and regulatory affairs culminating as CTV's Corporate Secretary and Legal Counsel.

Most recently, Mr. Basskin served as a member of the legal department of Nelvana Limited, a major Canadian producer of films and television programs. Mark Altman, President of CMRRA, in making the above announcement points out that Mr. Basskin "brings to the CMRRA a lifelong interest in music, both as a lawyer and as a musician, as well as his prior involvement and continuing interest in the reform of Canada's copyright legislation."

The CMRRA, which was founded in 1976, acts as a licensing and royalty collection agent for 15,000 corporations and individuals who own or have the right to administer the reproduction of the copyright in musical compositions. The agency primarily issues licenses to and collects royalties from the Canadian recording industry and the Canadian film, television and advertising industries, which in turn distributes to its clients in Canada and around the world.

WALT SAYS

WALTSHMOOZE . . . ! PROCAN held its 21st Annual Awards banquet and show, their "last supper", this past week. I hope it's not their last. However, now that the PROCAN/CAPAC marriage is complete, who knows. I do know there will be another storey added to the PROCAN building. It was another great show, the best, and kudos to Nancy Gyokeres for doing such a great job once again. Shopsy's first brunch of the season is on for this Sunday (Sept. 24) across the road from the O'Keefe Centre. There's a new book on the stands . . . Last Of The Good Ol' Boys by Ronnie Hawkins. Kinda raw, but very entertaining. I wish The Hawk had exerted a little more control over his co-writer. I'm up to here in Humble, and all the hype from his station, but he did raise $52,000 in pledges for Teens Against Crack & Cocaine, by being buried alive for 48 hours, and I think there was a hidden message in the response. Guess who turned 50 last week? Can't mention any names, but her initials are RT and a lot of early rock stars owe their success to this terrific programmer. Don't fear Sir Honest, the production of Les Miz at your Royal Alexandra Theatre is far out in front when it comes to superstage productions in old banana town. I hear you've got healthy ticket sales through to May of next year, and at 10,000 seats a week . . . that parlays up to a lot of bucks. I was disappointed not to see MS and his wife at the PROCAN awards show. They both did a lot of work on behalf of Canadian publishers and it would have been nice to see them there. COVER STORY - by Chris Murray

Wiz Bryant revives old values on new release

For fifteen years, singer/songwriter Wiz Bryant has travelled Canada, singing proudly of his country and its culture. Now he is back on vinyl with his fourth LP, Blue Collar Heroes, his first effort for Steve Thomson's Trilogy label.

"It's really a populist statement," says Bryant of his upcoming release, "an album that I wanted to do for all the hard-working people, whether they're truckers or fishermen or waitresses . . . some of them are making good money; some of them aren't; but they're all working very hard."

"We create this image of lifestyles of the rich and the famous," he continues. "If you're middle management or if you're [blue collar] . . . it's hard on your self-esteem because a lot of people in white-collar don't realize that if everybody in blue-collar stopped tomorrow, the country would be [stopped]. If you don't have a road to drive on or a car to drive or someone to fix your phone, then who the hell are you?" he asks. "I figured a statement was needed for these people because they don't get the celebration that they deserve."

"My Canadian songs will always be a big part of what I do," Bryant assures, "[but] I'm writing more philosophical stuff now . . . with more of a universal scope because I'm becoming very aware of who we all are with sort of a spiritual force: our oneness with God, our oneness with each other, our oneness with the earth, and that's becoming very important to me, more important than nationalism."

If talk of "oneness" harkens back to the sixties, it is with good reason as Bryant confides he was once a dedicated hippie. "I think there's an awareness that happened with the Woodstock generation, the summer of love and the whole bit," he suggests. "There's a sense of we've had time to think over the essence of it all, to get through the confusion and the despair and get through the 'me' period in the seventies and now, as people are hitting their forties, we're looking at what we're giving to our kids and there's a sense again of the awareness of the message basically and the feeling that we had about loving each other as brothers."

"That kind of awareness," he continues, "that kind of truth is becoming relevant to people again . . . it's coming around to that part of the circle again, but in a more powerful way, and very personal, but I think it's going to become very public again."

"We lost it for a while; a lot of us got caught up in the same thing," he stresses, "because we had to live through the seventies record of all time? I'm guessing, but I'd say Snowbird. Over the years since Anne Murray recorded this Gene MacLellan song, it has been covered several times, and is included on Anne's Greatest Hits Volume 1 album, which has sold over 6 million copies throughout the world. Yes, in case you were wondering, A&A Records & Tapes is still very much into cross-promotion . . . and I finally got my package of Trident gum, their latest campaign. (EC: You mean I can have the final word, now that you've said it all?)

too. And a lot of them said, 'Hey, it was great having those feelings and those ideals and bucking the system and being poor and broke and feeling good about our emotions, feeling good about what we were doing . . . but Jesus, man, we've got to get back and play the game.' And I think a lot of us did, and I count myself in that too."

"It's really easy because so many of those values are going around and those are the messages being communicated," he relates, "that you focus on all the success, on the material goals, power, status, achievement, competition. And I lived through it and eventually bottomed out, and I was going, 'This is just ashes in my hand'."

"The focus has been put on external success," he asserts, "when really what you feel in here is that you want to be an internal success; and that's not material values, it's spiritual values and human values, which is really the quality of life - it's what you feel."

"That focus on external success in the marketplace is all focussed on ego and it doesn't make us happy," he elaborates. "We're both fearful; we're anxious; we're in competition with each other whereas, if we can change the focus to our unity, our brotherhood, with the earth, with each other, with the whole universe, that's a whole different ballgame."

"Okay, that's a sixties message," he admits, "but it's happening now and people are ready for it because they're tired, they're weary; the world is weary; we're weary of the conflict; we're weary of all the negative stuff."

Bringing his sixties message to the nineties may not make Bryant a rich man, but this is clearly not a priority of his. "I get paid for my time," he contends, "but the music is a gift, because you can't put a price on it."

Algonquin Park setting for A&M's national meet

Twenty years ago Gerry Lacoursiere brought A&M into Canada as a free standing independent label, the first of the many international labels in Canada to establish a full-blown operation. A native of Windsor, Ontario, Lacoursiere had already made a name for himself in the fiercely competitive U.S. recording industry. He had worked the Detroit market for several years, which armed him well for his new Canadian venture.

One of the first to join Lacoursiere in the launch of A&M Records Canada was Joe Summers, another Detroit music industry street fighter, and together they built the Canadian operation into a tough, tight, closely-knit family with emphasis on team spirit. This team spirit was revealed at A&M's national convention which was held at Arowh Pines in Ontario's Algonquin Park from September 5th through 8th. This was the first time the trades (Luc Martel of Radio Active, The Record's David Farrell and RPM's Stan Klees and Walt Grealis had been invited to sit in on A&M's internal workshops. This was an opportunity for the trade press to view, and to take part in, the well-planned seminars, which allowed for a better understanding of how a major independent label goes about structuring its marketing, sales and promotion campaigns.

Also of major importance for the A&M operation is the success of their distributed labels, and it was only fitting that product presentations from some of these labels were a priority for the convention. Attic and Virgin, and the newly-acquired Chameleon label, presented short, detailed and entertaining segments, revealing up-and-coming new acts and releases. As well, it was announced that a recently pacted deal with Rykodisc would give A&M the powerful reissue box set of David Bowie's out-of-print RCA catalogue, which has all the earmarks of becoming a "much-in-demand" item for the Christmas season.

The A&M and distributed label product presentations were interspersed with roots-type very matter-of-fact discussions by Roblan's Jason Sniderman, Mike Shalett of New York's Street Pulse Group, well-known communications consultant Doug Pringle, MuchMusic's John Martin and Pierre Marchand of MusiquePlus.

Perhaps the most important factor for the success of the convention was the theme, "Let's Work Together", which was predicated on Leadership Secrets of Attila The Hun, a powerful, modern-day treatise on this notorious barbarian, and his leadership qualities, written by Wess Roberts, Ph.D. This book was discovered by Joe Summers, and throughout the four day convention, A&M personnel, dressed as Huns, would introduce Attila, who would read short pieces from the book, with each reading having a direct application to the record business.

On the final evening of the convention, A&M personnel and guests were recruited as tribespeople and Chieftains. The purpose was to play The Desert Kings, a business-oriented game, the results of which could also be applied to the record business.

Gil Friesen, President of A&M Records Inc., capped the convention with a fitting tribute to Gerry Lacoursiere and his twenty years of "dedication" to the label. "It was an emotional high for me," commented Lacoursiere. "We've been successful because we have a tendency to attract people who believe in the music and believe in the artists and that's still very key with us. That's where we start from and if we don't have that, we don't have anything." He concludes with "We've worked hard to create a family atmosphere with a team spirit . . . and that spirit is very much alive and we still have the fire . . . we still believe very much in the music and the artists."

A&M holds their national convention once every two years. "There's no way we could do a meeting every year, with the same intensity we demand," says Summers. "We started planning this meeting last January at the national level and, right up to the final week of the meeting, we were still fine-tuning and changing various aspects of it. We go into each meeting with some kind of theme or some kind of game . . . a sense of purpose, which is why we can't do it every year. It would take too much energy, and I don't think we could achieve that same high every year."

As Summers points out, "Using the Attila The Hun theme . . . we not only got the business message across, but we had some fun. I think it was a tribute to some of the veterans who got dressed up in outlandish costumes and spent many extra hours in putting together their presentations. Music was obviously the primary focus, with marketing secondary, but I think we can also enjoy ourselves." He concludes with, "We're not curing cancer . . . we're still in a product line that is fun to everyone who buys records, so why shouldn't we have some fun in the course of taking this product to the marketplace."

A&M's Branch of the Year award, presented by Gerry Lacoursiere and Joe Summers, to: Eva Thoth, Al Harrison, David Brian, Allison Brock and Tom Jones.

COUNTRY

Family Brown have a hit out of the box
Ottawa Valley's favourite family, Family Brown are on a roll. Not only did they reinstate themselves as Top Group earlier this year as winners in this category at the Big Country Awards, they won in the same category at the CCMA awards, plus Single and Song of the year for Town Of Tears. Now, their latest RCA single, Pioneers, has literally jumped on charts and playlists across the country. This is a Barry Brown original, written as a tribute to some of the pioneers in Canadian country music including his late father, Poppa Joe. The single was produced by Randall Prescott.

Tommy Hunter returns to disc scene
It's been several years since Tommy Hunter has had a single released and the timing couldn't be better. As he celebrates his 25th year as host of North America's longest running country/variety show (CBC-TV), he makes a bid for the charts with his new RCA single, The Man Of '87. This is a Vernon Rust original produced by Gilles Godard, and displays a full MAPL logo. The single was taken from Hunter's The Anniversary Sessions album, which also includes his duet with Janie Frickie.

Fast follow-up for Damron
While Dick Damron is enjoying good chart and playlist action with his RCA single, The Legend And The Legacy, the title track from his latest album, he jumps in with a follow-up. The new single, Ain't No Trains

To Nashville, was also taken from the Legend LP, produced in Nashville by Joe Bob Barnhill.

JK Gulley off with new single
JK Gulley's successful Blue Jeans Boy album has spawned yet another single, If He's Like Me. This is the follow-up to the title track which was taken as the first single and which became a Top 10 hit for Gulley (No. 8 - RPM Country - June 10/89). Gulley co-wrote the new single with M.D. Graham.

Travis single on two albums
The new Randy Travis single, It's Just A Matter Of Time, which enters the RPM Country 100 this week at No. 87, is included on two WEA albums, Rock, Rhythm &

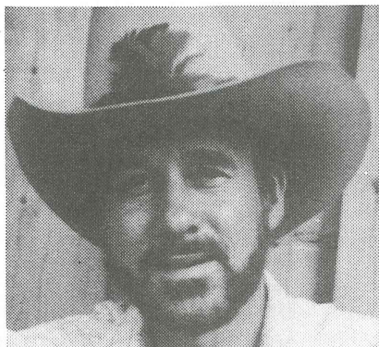

820 CHAM and James receive nod from CMA

There has been a little more Canadian flavour added to the 23rd Annual Country Music Awards Show, which will be telecast live from Nashville on Oct. 9th. Not only will Capitol's superstar Anne Murray be co-hosting the show with Kenny Rogers, but Hamilton's 820 CHAM Country will be on the list of award winners. This will be the first time a Canadian radio station has won a Station of the Year Award (Top Medium Market Country Station in North America). CHAM has also been a popular station with the trade in Canada, winning the Big Country Station of the Year Award for two consecutive years (1988 and 1989).

In order to win the CMA award, CHAM had to outpoint three other finalists from Austin, Texas, Little Rock, Arkansas and Huntington, Virginia. The Medium Market category is open to stations of 250 thousand to a million population, and the selection is made by a panel of judges comprised of CMA members.

As well, CHAM's Keith James made it into the finals as General Manager of the Year for Medium Market.

A U.S. break for Cancon indie
Watch for very interesting news of a veteran Canadian producer/label owner signing a production deal with a major U.S. label. This signing will result in a bright young country talent being released on a major label, which will result in effective distribution, a major key to success in Canada.

Marshall moves to Star Country

Al Chonka, National Program Director of Canadian Radio Networks, has announced the appointment of John Marshall as an on-air personality and Music Director of CRN's Star Country Network. He will assume his new duties Oct. 1st, when Star Country expands its service to 6 pm (Eastern Time), seven days a week, for its network of affiliated radio stations throughout Canada. Marshall will be on the air from 6 to 11 pm.

Marshall takes on his new position after having served as afternoon drive on-air personality and Music Director for the past three years at C-HOW Welland, Ontario. He has accumulated more than ten years experience in country music since completing the Radio Broadcasting Programme at Humber Community College. He has worked at stations in Ajax, Kapuskasing, Wingham, St. Catharines and Grande Prairie.

CKSA hits the road for "hardworking" listeners

This summer 1080 CKSA Lloydminster teamed up with Mark's Work Wearhouse and Coca-Cola Classic to salute "the hardworking people of the midwest," says the Alberta station's Promotion Director Jo Ann E. Comeau. "Whenever and wherever we found people hard at work, we presented them with a clean hard hat, a new pair of work gloves and an ice cold Coca-Cola Classic."

Comeau goes on to explain that the station's listening area employs a large number of blue collar workers, "who enjoy our format of Classic Rock and Roll, so we figured these people should receive some special attention for their hard work," continuing with, "we spot workers from our community cruiser when we're out and about and try to stop around coffee time, to prevent interrupting the work day. The workers love our visits and gifts, not to mention the foreman's appreciation for us as we encouraged people to wear our CSA approved hard hats on their job site."

During the campaign, more than 200 hard hats, gloves and Classic cokes were given out to construction, paving and parks crews. Comeau concludes with, "This was a great opportunity to meet listeners and introduce potential listeners to us... and the response was great!" For more information on this type of promotion contact Comeau at 403-875-3321.

"Nelson combines the people skills, experience and vision to bring exciting radio to 'BK,'" said Cosford, continuing with, "Most of all though, from his years at CFUN, Nelson knows what it takes to attract listeners to AM Radio."
