Warner/Chappell signs James Collins

Songwriter, radio tracker, promoter and singer, James Collins has become the newest addition to Warner Chappell Canada's domestic roster of songwriters.

The Oshawa born Collins has had a lengthy career in the business, from early childhood days of pouring over issues of RPM's Hits 100 to penning some of the country's top hits. He demonstrated artistic talent early on, and furthered the careers notably of Gavin Hope and Carol Medina as well as contributing songs on gold, platinum and diamond selling compilations.

"To me writing is therapeutic," commented the songwriter who has penned such songs as Medina's I'll Just Say Goodnight, which described the AIDS related death of a friend. Not surprisingly, the song became a focal point of Quality's I'm Coming Out compilation for Pride Day.

While much of his writing is derived from true to life situations, Collins says he is committed to writing songs that will allow people to see things from different points of views. He is currently charting with Hope's It's Ok, It's Alright (up to 31 this week on RPM's Hits 100).

Collins will be joining The Tea Party, Dave Pickell, Rheostatics, Stan Meissner, Kevin McKenzie, and Kardinall Offishall on Warner/Chappell's growing pool of songwriting talent.

an extensive, high-profile MuchMusic campaign and will also be supported by the three partner labels in a comprehensive national television, radio and print campaign valued at about $600,000.

"The partnership represents the best in dance music, period," commented BMG GM Lisa Zbitnew. "It's a very exciting opportunity to bring to market a fresh new brand that will no doubt dominate the dance market; a market which continues to thrive in Canada."

"Great partners, great concept; can't wait to see this explode at retail," added Denise Donlon, MuchMusic's VP and General Manager.

The first volume in the series, titled MuchDance '97, is expected for release this month.

MuchMusic VP and GM Denise Donlon is flanked by Live after the band's Intimate & Interactive last week prior to hitting the stage at The Horseshoe. Proceeds from the show were donated to the Music Therapy Trust Fund.

Native artist releases stunning debut

Canada gets first peek at Fara's World

by Rod Gudino

Breaking into this industry with more than a whisper has got to be the most difficult part about being a musician. The lucky ones manage an early wave of interest or generate an active buzz among media and fans; seldom do we experience an independent artist that walks in and commands our undivided attention. But that is what we have been experiencing with one Fara Jaylene Katcheech Palmer, better known as Fara to friends, family... and increasing number of fans.

A native of Saskatchewan who moved and grew up in Vancouver, Fara was a distinctive discovery of a few roving label eyes over at Blackmoon Records. She was barely out of highschool at the time and, encouraged by a lot of the right people and a personal love for great music, decided to give herself over to a formal musical attempt. Armed with two songwriting teams, she entered the studio and emerged a little while later with This Is My World, a beautifully candid album from a candid woman whose vocal prowess bestowed the effort with a scope beyond any self-respecting debut.

"I got my talent handed down to me," explains the twenty-four year old. "My grandfather used to play guitar and when my mom was young, he used to take her around with him. Whenever there was a party or something, he'd be singing away and everybody else would be listening and singing with him. Then my mom got into it and she had a really good voice so she started singing and she passed that down to me."

Not surprisingly, Fara grew up in a household of female singers; people like Joan Baez, Joni Mitchell, Emmylou Harris, Buffy St. Marie, Janis Joplin -- all of whom resided in her mother's stereo system. She is aware that the rich musical mesh that soundtracked her early years gave her an ear that developed sensitivity to the vocal fluctuations of folk, R&B, pop and gospel music. She began writing shortly after that, and managed a few songs and melodies, some of which even ended up on This Is My World.

"When I was young, my mom used to encourage me to sit down at the table and write music," she says. "I have some of my first lyrics and they're really cheesecakey, I mean really cheesecakey. Then at some point my poems started turning into lyrics and then the lyrics took over."

Her talent was recognised early on. Vocal training from a Polish opera singer led to easy involvement at weddings and school choirs, culminating, at age 12, with an event where she shared the stage with Buffy St. Marie. Eventually, word of mouth got her to sing along side Susan Aglukark, Shingoose, Willy Dunn and others for the Children Of The World recording/video project created to instil aboriginal pride amongst native youths.

Demands for the singer keep piling up. She has been asked to perform twice for the National Aboriginal Achievements Awards, and most recently was one of the added names for VisionQuest, alongside Amy Sky, Dan Hill and Roch Voisine.

"I strive to continue to learn how to get the portrayal of emotions through my voice and hit someone in the heart," she explains, "either to bring a smile to a face or to make them cry. I live to see somebody get emotional about the music that I'm doing."

The new album is a vibrant showcase of talent and artistic scope is doing just that. Within is a singular mesh of soul, R&B and pop, experimental but never inaccessible. A song called I Like It is the definitive centrepiece of the album and has been singled out as the emphasis track.

As Fara continues to showcase in support of This Is My World, she is already entertaining possible ideas for a new album, expected to go into production next year.

"We have a bunch of stuff already," she beams. "Some of the songs are extremely inspirational, some of them are sad, some of them are happy songs, so it's a mixture you know. To share the way that I feel about music is a great gift, it's like getting number one when you give somebody shivers."

Changes in A&R structure for Warner's Montreal

Dave Tollington, senior vice-president and managing director of Warner Music Canada's domestic and international division, has announced the appointment of Helene Morin to the position of manager of French repertoire.

Morin will be responsible for the marketing of Warner Music Canada's roster of Quebecois artists as well as French-language A&R. She will also be responsible for the marketing of French-language repertoire from Warner's two companies in France (East West France and WEA France).

For the past four years, Morin has been involved in marketing French repertoire for Warner in Quebec. She worked very closely with Lynda Lemay (whose last Warner album some more than 200,000 copies). Prior to Warner, Morin worked in the concert promotion business and with an independent label. She replaces Martin Leclerc who left Warner recently to pursue a career in artist management.

In a related move, Josee Godin has been appointed promotion and publicity coordinator of French repertoire. He joined Warner two years ago as a part time customer service representative based in Quebec City, moving to Montreal as a full-time CSR. Josee will report directly to Morin.

Universal Music's Warner Weins, Randy Lennox and Vickie Montgomery are all smiles as they present Chumbawamba with platinum awards for the band's Tubthumper release. The band performed at the Opera House in continued support for the album.

WALT SAYS . . . !

Chad Richardson's got a hook!!! Last week we reported that Chad Richardson, a singer/songwriter from St. John's had scored a leading role in Rent, a new production to be produced by Ed and David Mirvish. Apparently there was a little controversy over his recording career having some priority over his musical theatre career, although one should go very well with the other, wouldn't you think? Anyway, all's well, Chad's Aquarius album, The Legends of Brud (which means brother in Newfoundland slang), is going to get that extra hook that so many recording artists are looking for. As he treads the board in Rent at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, his album will be for sale in the lobby of the theatre. I don't think that has happened very often. Just think, Chad gave up a professional as a school teacher and a chef, whatever the connection there kind leaves me blank, to become a songwriter and a performer. I guess having the credentials to be a school teacher have served him well. He writes some pretty understandable stuff. And on his chef side. While he's waiting for that break, he can cook himself up a pretty good looking Kraft dinner for about 37 cents. By the way, there's another singer/songwriter recording artist in the Rent cast as well, and I hate this to be a tailpiece. Gavin Hope, no stranger to the chart, also landed a role in the musical. He's currently charting with It's Okay, I Understand, his latest Popular single. (EC: A hook's a hook, not matter if you're in theatre or records!!!)

The Howard Stern movie!!! I picked up that Howard Stern movie, with some apprehension. But, I'll tell you, this guy has got the New York boardroom gangsters down pat. What a great movie. If you can overlook the language and the farting, you'll be thoroughly entertained. Stern comes off not being such a bad guy. They found that the listeners who hate Stern most tune in for two hours, which is his whole show. Research shows that his real listeners, those who like him, tune in for about an hour and a bit. And, what's the CRTC going to do about his syndicated radio series in Canada? Not much. His French-language listeners in Montreal are among those who listen for the two hours. (EC: He's a showman!!!)

Time to unload property!!! Real Estate prices are up a bit, but not where they should be to make a profit on a downtown property. But now's the time to sell. So watch for one of those grand old mansions to change hands very shortly, and the shorter the better. There are ghost stories that go with the house, and a sometimes friendly ghost, which should make the property more expensive. (EC: Are you kidding???)

THE ROYAL CROWNS 32 Miles From Memphis Horseshoe Recordings 1997-2007

Here's a homegrown homage to a musical form that just doesn't get enough currency in the industry or with the populace at large. We're talking about good ol' rock and roll -- Elvis Presley style, Billy Holiday style -- you know the stuff. Modern permutations have given it a host of new monikers, from roll-a-billy, surf-garage, roots alternative, but anyway you slice it, you should know what to expect from a song called Doin' The Cricket. In this respect, The Royal Crowns are a welcome burst of unrepentant, gutsy, timeless 50s rock and roll. The appearance of Ted Fury (Horseshoe Tavern's celebrated bartender) on drums has given the Royal Crowns the status of house band at said bar. It has also given them some pull with older brothers of the scene, notably Dick Dale, Southern Culture On The Skids, Huevos Rancheros and Jerry Lee Lewis. Unlike some of the aforementioned, Royal Crowns are pretty conservative when it comes to giving their sound some modern flair and in this respect they resemble Rattled Roosters, the now defunct rockabilly phenom from Vancouver. The bottom line? '32 Miles From Memphis' is a great album from a band that still values style and rebellion. While musical trends continue to where their wares on Fascination Street, the rest of us will assemble a collective prayer in thanks that we have The Royal Crowns so close to home.

HACKERS 2 Various Artists Attic 1495-J

You remember Hackers because the movie was so bad and the music was so good. God only knows how the hell all that fell into place, but the musical end of it is certainly not forgetting the applause. They have released this 'Music From and Inspired By' release, in an attempt to extend the range of the first album. It does so with a smattering of wild mixes on some techno staples and (wisely) a missing film. The album opens up with

-Techno

Prodigy's Firestarter, a tune which should be pretty much etched into every Ecstasy poppin' raver from here to Timbuktu, but disoriented here at the remixing board. We get the same effect on Orbital's Speed Freak (how could anyone remix that? Ed.), Brooklyn Bounce's Get Ready To Bounce, Luce Drayton's To Be Loved and Chicane's Offshore. Bowie, the new/old addition to the rave scene, gets Sabered on Little Wonder, while Orb's Toxygene, Moby's Go, Underworld's Cherry Pie and Empirion's Narcotic Influence 2 round out the release. The music has been cleverly selected and the digital beats throb with a phosphorescent kind of hue, a strong indicator to the kind of club life this thing should elicit. Lots of aggressive advertising on The Imagination Station and (very) select print media will make this a definite Christmas sell-through.

BRIGITTE PACE Weird Voices Cool Records 127-Select

Montreal born and raised Brigitte Pace has made a little bit of a splash there, which is the reason that Cool Records snagged the singer and why you are currently reading this review. As we understand it, her debut has been named more after Pace's lyrical, rather than musical, inspirations. Not surprisingly, much of the singer's edge comes from her words and their content of timed tragedies played out before bathroom mirrors and within institutions. Sometimes the results are really impressive, and the effect is redoubled by strong vocal work and aching choruses. Save Your Soul has introduced the singer as a diva with immaculate pop leanings and MusiquePlus and MuchMusic are giving the video the attention it deserves. It's a neatly executed single with credit undoubtedly going to production work from Albe Paserilli (Bran Van 3000) and Stephane Lessard (Roch Voisine). Weird Voices gives ample argument that Pace has the goods to be noticed in a major way; certainly the possibilities for an artist of high commercial calibre are here. Keep an eye very, very close on this one.

THE HANGING GARDEN Various Artists Virgin 44908-F

It's great to see a major Canadian feature full up with Canadian Content. That's what we have with Atom Egoyan's latest cinematic offering; an offering, might we point out, that is garnering huge international acclaim. The movie picked up a Cannes Jury Prize and part of the reason was the musical backdrop against which the story is told. We haven't actually seen the film, but the soundtrack goes something like this: Ani DiFranco, Ashley MacIsaac, Mae Moore, Spirit Of The West, Jane Siberry, Holly Cole,

The Rankin Family, Meryn Cadell, Mary Jane Lamond, Lori Yates, Leahy. Cudos to the soundtrack team for taking a bite on up and coming talent from Wyrd Sisters, Aether and especially Deb Montgomery whose gripping The Tale is a beautifully melancholic piece and a definite high point of the album. Tactfully conceived, beautifully composed, Hanging Garden remains an item with lots of retail leg in the wake of the film's current -- and continued -- successes.

McRHEA Smoking Can Kill You Independent

-Country/Folk/Rock

Not very often does an album strike a nerve like this one has. Right from the unique design of the cigarette pack album cover, to the 12th track on the album, Seems That Way To Me, all the components seem to be there to fit at least three formats of music, Country, folk-rock and just plain cool music. The song that might seem to be the only one geared more toward Canadians is the track, Greatest Gift, dealing with the childhood bond between a father and his son. Oh yea, More geared towards Canadian's because it talks about our national sport at one point, hockey. Seem's the written component of the album may have been performed at different times as the is a flutter of emotion through out the 12 tracks. The vision of suicide is definitely visible in the track House Of Pain, and loving emotions shine through in track #4, Tamara. The majority of the album was recorded at the house of the lead singer, Mike McDowell, with the drum tracks being laid down at Rainbow Studios in Niagara Falls. Once the album was completed it was engineered by three time Grammy winner Joe Shugan, who's known for his work with polka king Walter Ostanek. Production duties were handled by Kevin McDowell, Mike McDowell and Daryl Gray from the hot 80's band Helix. For the album to be complete to the standards of the two brothers the next stage was to go to Metalworks Studio, where Brad Nelson (Headstones, Burton Cummings, Alannah Myles) was called in to perform the mixing chores. In the album you can really notice the life lessons and it's a real pleasure to relate on an experience level to a lot of the songs which deserve some real close attention.

THE INTIME QUINTET Piazzolla Intime Marquis Classics 81203-F

-Tango

Piazzolla Intime isn't an ad for a fast pizza delivery in NYC. The late Astor Piazzolla is considered the father of tango nueva in which the sensuality of the traditional tango is extended into new dimensions of emotion neither as unbridled as those of the original nor as stilted as those of the ballroom genre. So popular has it become that a competition is held annually to determine the musical group best performing in the spirit of his music. The first winner was, you guessed it, Intime Quintet back in 1994. The group is comprised of bass, piano, guitar, violin, and accordion instead of the bandoneon of which A.P. was an acknowledged master. It now proudly, and probably correctly, proclaims itself the World's Finest Piazzolla Quintet. Who's to gainsay given that the music is still regarded by many as esoteric. This auditor likes it even while observing that it's a long way removed from that Chico Valle y Los Cubanitos who used to play in Toronto's Cork Room. How far removed? try all the way to Tampere, Finland where this was recorded. That says volumes about the universal appeal of Piazzolla's music. Even so, one has difficulty reconciling what is usually regarded as warm climate music with Finland.

ALBUM PICK

SPICE GIRLS Spice World Virgin 45111-F

-Pop

Even after 18 million units worldwide, the naysayers (and there are more than a few of them) are trying to prove that Spice Girls are just about rounding out their fourteenth minute. This audacious release -- audaciously named -- certainly seems to indicate that said girls beg to differ, thank you very much. And then there are the critics like us, who find it a little difficult to determine where Spice Girls will end up a year from now, what with the kind of track record that groups of this ilk have had in the past. But whatever the ultimate outcome of the group, the immediate future of Spice Girls seems cemented into the same surefire mold that has made them into a global phenom in the first place. Spice World is daring simply because it attempts to develop this test tube act substantially beyond the realm of girly pop. Spice Up Your Life is a naturally orchestrated single which might seem a little evasive at first, but reveals its true colours on the second and third listen. Follow up tracks try hard at maturity, notably Stop, Too Much and the spritely (but reserved) Saturday Night Divas. Virgin Music has clued in to the fact that music is only half the story here and have released a Spice Video concurrently (a wrap up of the past year with videos and miscellaneous footage) that should see the album off until feature movie time. Ditto goes for the visuals on the video which will keep the general populace -- gulp -- hanging til the second single. And if they really are on their fourteenth minute, then by golly it's going to be a memorable one.

BEN WEBSTER*Cotton Tail
RCA Victor 66790-N

As time passes, the memory of saxophonist Ben Webster is increasingly associated with that of Duke Ellington only. In fact, he played with many others including Benny Moten, Rex Stewart, Willie Bryant, Lionel Hampton and Benny Carter. His work with them is featured here as well as generous samplings of his time with The Duke. Though he was an excellent ensemble man, his creamy tenor stood out even there. Off hand, we can't recall any player with a silkier kinetic. The album is quite simply a joy for Webster alone but there are other pleasures. There's the excellent piano work of early Count Basie, The Duke himself and the sublime Billy Strayhorn. The latter's work on Chelsea Bridge is classic in texture. And, of course, there's the textbook but nevertheless dynamic percussion of Sid Catlett. Complete playing time of 22 tracks is 69.12 but it seems much less. Grab this one. -BW

GEORGE CHAMBERS
The Vibe*NVN 002-Independent

One intends no slight in labelling this release dance. Certainly it makes one want to move with its infectious beat and ultra mod orchestrations. Chambers' voice is light but not so much that his way with lyrics is buried. He's an up and coming artist who knows what he's saying and he says it well. Lead vocals over disco? Why not? Mostly MAPL, completely enjoyable and deserving an immodest degree of airplay activity. -BW

OTTMAR LIEBERT*Leaning Into The Night/Inclinado
En La Noche - Sony Classical 63105-H

There is life after rock after all. Erstwhile jazz-funkmeister Ottmar Liebert here plays flamenco guitar foregrounding loving, lush orchestrations by Oscar Castro-Neves of classics and original compositions. The approach is sincere and not at all gimmicky as evidenced by renditions of Satie's Premiere Gymnopédie, Puccini's O Mio Babbino Caro and Ravel's Pavane Pur Infante Defunte among others of the 12 selections. They're musically, and delightfully, re-approached but still true to the intent of their composers. There's enjoyment too in Liebert's own mood pieces such as Yasmeen (our favourite) and Bombay. Though it's labelled classical, Leaning Into The Night would be equally at home on easy listening radio. Are there any programmers out there reading this? -BW

-Jazz

JOSE CARRERAS*My Romance
Erato 17789-P

Jose Carreras' earliest inspiration was Mario Lanza. It shows in this collection of songs from stage musicals and operettas. Like Lanza and many other classically trained singers before him, he over emotes with predictable results. Light pieces that should be enjoyed on their own merits of simplicity suffer from overkill, rather much like shooting butterflies instead of netting them. It doesn't help either that he essays some songs too closely associated with other artists; this Nearly Was Mine belongs only to Ezio Pinza. Rose Marie and

Indian Love Call are indelibly associated with Nelson Eddy (a baritone!), Dein ist Mein Ganzes Herz und Lippin Schweigen were sung definitively by Richard Tauber. To be fair, the album isn't without enjoyment. The songs themselves are tuneful and the accompaniment of the London Musician Orchestra reminds us of the RCA and MGM orchestras conducted by Ray Sinatra that used to accompany Lanza. If only Mr. Carreras would "pull back." -R&B

LEE DORSEY
Wheelin' And Dealin'
Arista 18980-N

Lee Dorsey's back, at least, on record (he passed away in 1986 just before his 60th birthday). Here's is everything that's joyful in

R&B: 20 tracks of music whose only statement is entertainment. Dorsey's voice was never notably strong but it was a happy one and this is happy music from the 60s. Mindless? Perhaps, but who cares? Just sit back and enjoy early crossover R&B at its best -- a best that we're not likely to hear ever again. Definitely deserving a front racking. -BW

Garth Brooks is set to release his long anticipated album Sevens. The release date is set for November 25 and radio has already been serviced with the first single, Longneck Bottle (as of November 7). What's there to say? The single, the album. I'm sure you can already figure out how it will do. Come on, it's Garth.

Jerry Renewych after 19 years as the President of Warner Chappell Music Canada has opened his own publishing company. "With Golden phoenix I intend to provide an even higher quality of service and close, personal attention to detail," he said. After receiving his degree in classical music at Montreal's McGill Conservatory of Music and at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, Renewych moved on to open a Montreal based office for Warner Chappell Music. Eventually he was transferred to Toronto and worked his way through a chain of positions such as Creative Director, General Manager and finally, President. In 1987 Warner Brothers acquired Chappell Music and Renewych played out his role until 1995. During his Presidency he managed to secure over 300 cover versions of songs by his songwriters with artist like Anne Murray, Bette Midler and Celine Dion. Renewych's first signing is going to prove to be a wise choice for Golden Phoenix Music Corp. The Wilkinsons, a newly Nashville based family of 5 weeks, formerly of the Ontario area, is in the middle of what seems to be a 'major' bidding war. Father, Steve, Daughter Amanda, and son Tyler 13 are going to be experiencing success due to their unique songwriting capabilities and their undoubtedly incredible talent for performing. "The most important thing is that they're filling a niche, something that's not already in North America," explains Renewych. "Everyone that I've heard interest from cannot get through the conversation without using the word 'FRESH'. It's going to be a fantastic project and I'm extremely happy to have them signed with Golden Phoenix." With the excitement levels of Renewych and his undisputable interest in music publishing, Golden Phoenix Music Corp. is a company that Renewych has built throughout his entire career. Now it's just time to open the doors and let the success flood in.

Blue Mountain, a rock-a-billy, powerpacked and unique album fell into the hands of RPM this week through Attic Records promotion girl Sharon Douce. It's a band that sounds like there going to be just what the doctor ordered. They've got the blues influence that shines through with an equal amount of country. This is the 2nd release for Blue Mountain trio on the Roadrunner/Attic label. Keep an eye on the album's singles, they should do very well.

The Songwriter's Association of Canada held its 3rd annual tribute to the SOCAN Awards on November 9th. All those who took part in the songwriter's showcase are nominated at this year's awards show. It was the 15th Toronto Bluebird show and featured the like of some incredible songwriting talent. The show was hosted by famed children's entertainer Fred Penner and included some of the best songwriters around. Dean McTaggart, formerly of the pop-rock group The Arrows has received recording success from artists like Anne Murray, Amanda Marshall and been included on Wynonna's last two records; Marc Jordan, who has been involved with the likes of Bette Midler and Rod Stewart; Naoise Sheridan, a native of Ireland has a hefty co-writing record, penning with the likes of Kim Stockwood for the songs Jerk and Enough Love. Naoise is also attributed as co-writer on Jason McCoys, Born Again In Dixeland, along with Denny Carr and McCoy himself. Hemingway Corner, Five Man Electrical Band, Bill Henderson and Brian Hughes, all recognizable names were also on hand for the SOCAN praise.

Greg Hanna whose single Ain't No Justice is still on the climb on the RPM Country 100, is currently holding down the #10 spot this week. Hanna is readying the next new single with producer Kim Tribble (David Lee Murphy, George Fox), and can probably expect some great things from that release as well.

Ken Munshaw has decided to go looking stateside for a new record contract. Munshaw, an artist formerly signed to Duke St. Records, recently spent a week visiting with Bruce Hornsby at his home in Williamsburg Virginia (the two met 3 1/2 years ago at a private function for Troy Aikman and the Dallas Cowboys) has decided that now is the time to get more serious than he's ever been. Two trips are already planned for the US, one trip will be an adventure to New York and following that the artist plans to head to Nashville. Munshaw, who had hits with Sun Comes Up, Thunder & Lightning, and performed an exceptional showcase at the this year's CCMA's is still continuing his incredible songwriting and his edgy style of music. In the mean time, keep an eye and especially an ear out for the follow up to Human Condition.

Beverly Mahood has been conversing with legendary producer David Foster, not just over the phone, but at his house in the L.A. area. Her new album is going to be ready for release sometime in early 1998 and will include a duet with Ken Munshaw called Let's Kiss and Make-up.

Voices Against Violence, (The Warren Foundation) Jamie Warren's foundation for victims of domestic violence is surely going to be one of Canada's best not-for-profit organizations. Warren, who held a concert on August 9th of this past summer in Markham On. at The Mandarin Golf & Country Club, got some great support from John Bosschaert at Avenue Motorworks & Courtney Chev Olds who provided the stage. CMT also supported and came to film the concert which included performers Jamie Warren, Julian Austin, Stephanie Beaumont, Rena Gaile, Jim Witter, James Owen Bush, Giselle, Beverly Mahood, and Lawnie Wallace. Following the CMT filming, the concert was edited and aired numerous times on the network. Board meetings for the foundation are continually in progress and it's just a matter of time before more charitable events take place to raise money for the cause. There is a plan for a Voices Against Violence concert part II to take place in the summer of '98, although the time and place has not yet been established. For more information on The Warren Foundation call (519) 725-6548. As of now Warren is in the pre-production stage for his next album that he plans to start recording in late November. He recently completed a 3 show 'cowboy' tour with Jason McCoy and Duane Steel. All three played together at the famous 'Cowboys' bars in Calgary, Edmonton and Fort McMurray.

Marty Damsell, an Ontario based independent recording artist is starting to finally get the recognition he deserves. At a recent meet and greet in the Welland On. area, Damsell showed up only to be surprised that he has quite a hit going with his first release off The Singles album, Tears Running Down. Although Damsell has yet to find himself a stable spot with a label that's interested in his material, it should only be a matter of time. He is receiving some pretty remarkable spins across Canada and on the other side of the border as well, according to a RDR Tracking report.
