MuchMusic once again sets stage for video awards

The 9th annual MuchMusic Video Awards will go live from MuchMusic World Headquarters on Sept. 24 beginning at 8 pm (ET). They are described as "North America's most unconventional awards program."

Of particular importance this year is the "groundbreaking genderless categories," making the awards even more interesting because as the MuchMusic people boast "there is no attitude and no bums in seats, just the very best in Canadian and International musicvideo inside television's party of the year!"

There are also three new categories: Eye Popper Award, New Technology Award and VideoFact Award, the details of which will be released later. The nominees for the 1998 MuchMusic Videos are as follows:

Mike Bullard's a go for second CTV season

Open Mike with Mike Bullard, the highly-rated talk cum comedy show seen nightly on CTV and the Comedy Network, has been renewed for a second season.

Bullard will christen CTV's new studio at The Temple which is located on Toronto's mid-Yonge Street with his Sept. 21st show. His guests that night will include Due South star Paul Gross, Adrian Lyne, director of Fatal Attraction, 9 1/2 Weeks and his latest movie Lolita. He will also feature Vancouver's Econoline Crush and their EMI album The Devil You Know.

The Sept. 22 edition will feature figure skating champion Kurt Browning, Knowlton Nash and Winnipeg's Watchmen and their EMI album Silent Radar.

Talk show host Dini Petty will be featured on the Sept. 23 edition along with world champion stunt cyclist and X-Games competitor Jay Miron.

Tonight Show regular and newly published poet John Wing Jr. is scheduled for the Sept. 24th edition, with Rajah the Myna Bird and Colin Kerr. Big Wreck's Warner Music album will be featured.

For Bullard's final show of the week (Sept. 25) guests will include former Tears For Fears member Curt Smith who will introduce his new album Mayfield; comedian Jeremy Hotz who is appearing in the new movie My Favourite Martian; and Sony recording band The Philosopher Kings who are promoting their latest album Famous Rich and Beautiful.

The Bullard show can be seen weeknights on The Comedy Network at 10 pm (EST) and at 12:35 am on CTV.

Obituary

John Gilbert - the master talk show host

Veteran on-air radio personality John Gilbert died Sept. 15 on his 68th birthday after suffering for a number of years with Alzheimer's disease.

Mr. Gilbert was one of the first conscientious radio programmers who did much to promote and foster Canadian talent. When he was on air at CHEX Peterborough in the early '70s he used the station's studio to record a demo for Shirley Matthews. Out of that session for Matthews came her monster hit Big Town Boy which climbed the charts in both Canada and the U.S. Mr. Gilbert was always ready and anxious to go that extra mile for the burgeoning young recording industry.

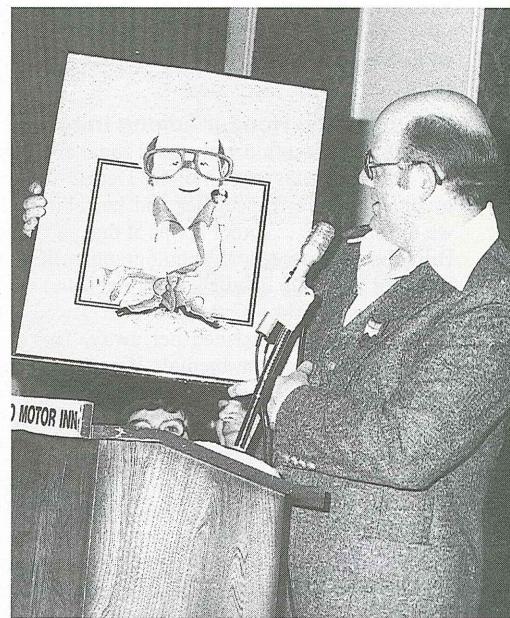

Mr. Gilbert also gained notoriety as an on-air personality at other radio stations across Canada. He moved from airing music to hosting Speak Your Mind, a phone-in talk show on CHUM AM in 1971, where he found the popular niche that turned out to be his career change. He hosted the show through most of the '70s, a show he made popular through his sometimes volatile attacks on callers but more for his compassion and offers of healing advice to other callers.

After leaving CHUM, he took on-air jobs at CKFH, CKEY and the now defunct CKO radio news network in the early '80s where he immediately gained a national audience.

Mr. Gilbert survived radio's downsizing which began in the early '90s managing to hang on through the mid-nineties. He was last heard on the air at CKTB in St. Catharines, a position he had to reluctantly give up due to deteriorating health.

Mr. Gilbert is survived by his wife Joan, their five children, Heather, Shane, Angela, Patrick, Timothy and 10 grandchildren. Funeral services were held in Streetsville on Sept. 18. A memorial service is planned for Toronto at a later date.

John Gilbert with a caricature of himself presented during a campus college conference in Waterloo, Ontario in the mid-seventies.

Universal's Wesley Hayden, Randy Lennox, Stephanie Robertson and Cori Ferguson present gold award to Rob Zombie for his debut solo album Hellbilly Deluxe during his visit to Sunrise Records.

Tori Amos receives gold award for her album From The Choirgirl Hotel during her Toronto date from Warner's Jo Falloona, Ken (How cum my picture never runs in RPM) Berry, Kim Cooke and Steve Waxman.

WALT SAYS . . . !

with Elvira Capreese

It's over! They've gone!!! We survived another Toronto Film Festival and the secret is . . . not to venture south of Bloor Street. Seems the festival organizers (EC: Public enemies number one, two and three and more!!!) Tell all those who attend there is nothing but farmland two blocks above Bloor Street. (EC: Nice people though!!!) Not really! Read on!

Our mandate! Honour among thieves!!! We do make an exception and attend some of the galas . . . the good ones . . . anything Denise Donlan is involved in. We respect her and her abilities! So we did smooze . . . some! It was at that party where Billy Zane screamed at the photographers "Enough! Enough!" and his handler threw her hand up into the lens of one of Canada's best loved event photographers and pushed her away. This to the dismay of a lot of the media! If you show up at these things, you expect to be photographed! (EC: I heard she was so shaken by this manhandling . . . she left!!!) Good for her!

A trooper leaves us!!! Radio giant and really nice guy, Johnny Gilbert has passed away. I can remember when I managed Shirley Matthews in the early '60s and Johnny helped me do the demo of Shirley at the station where he was working at the time. This led to the hit Big Town Boy which is now legendary in Cancon! He was always gracious and fun to be with. (EC: He'll be missed!!!)

Thanks for the memories!!! After nine years in Brandon, Ray Walker is no longer program director of KX96FM. He was also the morning show host, but was downsized on Sept. 14. He is apparently to be replaced by a yet-to-be-named operations manager. He can be contacted at 204-728-9289. (EC: That's cutting to the chase!!!)

Calling favours??? Did Cliff Dumas take a bunch of his morning listeners with him when he returned to CHAM's morning show? He had a bevy of Canadian country stars help him through that first week. The station sounds pretty good, the morning show that is. Watch for ratings gains into the GTA. (EC: Morning radio shows should do more of the guest spots!!!)

Shania DID show!!! Just imagine if country star Shania Twain really didn't show up for the CCMA country music awards? And rumours were pretty widespread that she wouldn't. Something to do with keeping that mystique in place. Nice to see however, that someone was able to break through that protective bubble and impress her handlers that she would be offending not only the industry and the people who made her a star . . . her fans, but it would leave a big hole in the awards show. Six awards out of eight nominations. Now, that's a sweep. And how embarrassing it would have been to say six times that the biggest star of country music was too busy to show. Logic prevailed. (EC: It doesn't very often!!!)

Speaking of country!!! Canadian country music was vibrantly alive and the star system was glittering all through that great two hours of pure country entertainment put on by the CCMA. Fast-paced, packed with energy and what a window for our star system. Two hours, right down to the minute, which doesn't happen too often when you have to put up with long-winded winners and not-so-funny, long-winded presenters, which there weren't at these awards. Prediction! If this one doesn't break that two million viewer mark, I'll be surprised. (EC: It'll be more when they count in the TNN audience!!!)

Rip and Read!!! My pet peeve is that wannabe-TV giant that does newscasts . . . very short on professionalism . . . filled with erroneous information . . . sloppy . . . amateurish drivel . . . programming to the lowest common denominator! (EC: Are you wound up???) Who are we giving these licences to? (EC: Bigger and bigger and bigger! It has to do with profit . . . not programming!!!)

Stan Kulin's little old log cabin retirement home on the prairies (in the shade of the Rockies).

Kulin dropped so much coin on his new house - he traded in his utility vehicle for this new ride. (EC: At least it's a convertible!!!)

Da bait!!! A new feature. Walt and Elvira go to it! (EC: This will not be a regular feature!!!)

WG: In this very magazine there are extensive lists of what people are buying in record stores. These are updated every week. Wouldn't you think this is exactly what radio stations should be playing? Isn't this the finger on the pulse of what the public wants?

EC: Programmers will argue that what is sold in stores is not the same as what radio should program. They will also say that this doesn't fit any of the formats that they play when it comes to popular music.

WG: So the RPM Top 100 CD's chart reflects what is sold and not what is popular?

EC: This was once called hit parade and I guess the people who know feel that this wouldn't work on radio in the '90s!

WG: Days long ago, a very important programmer told me this is exactly what would work. What people want is what should be on the air. So now we'll go to the people out there and ask why it wouldn't work!

Visions Of Love

Windham Hill-01934-11401-N

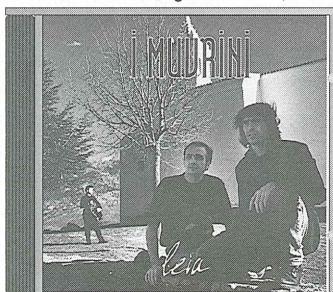

Songwriter/keyboardist Jim Brickman has proven that he is a master of the love song genre. He did it with Michelle Wright, whose collaboration of Your Love won them a CCMA award this year. Here he puts together an incredible 11-track package of love songs. After All These Years, taken as the first single, is currently making good moves up the RPM A/C chart (#20). The song is described as "a perfect anniversary tune for all ages." Also includes Brickman's collaboration with Collin Raye and Susan Ashton on The Gift. The standout track is Peabo Bryson's powerhouse R&B ballad My Heart Belongs To You. Could be a giant A/C hit. Also key is Larry Stewart's Still In Love, Janis Ian's Getting Over You and Partners In Crime, a collaboration with Brickman and Dave Koz. Produced by Brickman.

I MUVRINI
Leia

EMI-7243-4-94999-F

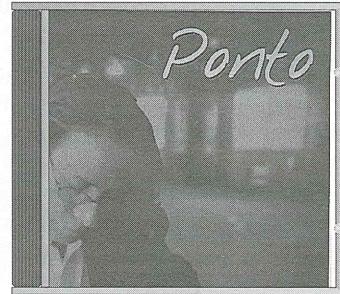

What will attract most to this album is a poignant adaptation of Sting's Fields Of Gold on In Terre D'Oru, and that's Sting on lead vocals, magnificently backed by the fluted harmony of I Muvrini. Although this is a key track with more balls than the original, don't underestimate this very professional and polished band from Taglio Isolacciu, a small village in Northern Corsica. Leia (The Link) happens to be the band's 13th album, which in it says something about the popularity of I Muvrini, who fuse traditional Corsican folk music with celtic, cajun and jazz, and that's where the soul comes in, flowing graciously throughout these 13 tracks. The haunting and layered vocals, beautifully balanced, weave a simple, sometimes emotional message that has an unusual urgency. The vocal beauty is the property of the Bernardini brothers, Alain and Jean-Francois with the latter doing most of the writing. Key are Ora ghjé. Eo é tu, Quelli chi un anu à nimu and the classical-influenced Un sò micca venuti. But don't overlook the traditional Diu vi salvi regina and Salve sancta parens. Language aside, the entertainment value of this album is without question. -WG

Self-titled Orbit-801

At first listen Ponto impacts immediately with a comfort zone that's rare for a new artist. The gruff, but exquisitely layered vocals by Ponto (Paparo) have a stand-alone reverence, further enhanced by the masterfully-balanced instrumental backing by Ponto bandmembers Simon Beausejour (drums, percussion, vocals); Louis Kirouac (guitars); Hugo Sigouin (bass); and Valérie Pichon (violin, keyboards).

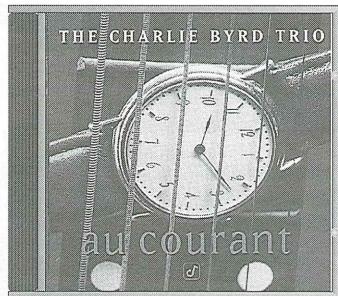

- Pop 'n folk

To add to that professional lushness, Paparo and producer Paul Pagé brought in an impressive lineup of what must be the best of Montreal pickers, including guitarists Pierre Cote, René Flageole and Gilles Tessier; drummer Dominique Messier; percussionist Paul Picard, keyboardist Luc Gilbert; saxman Jean-Pierre Zanella; and an incredible string section called Quatuor St-Denis on the Home track. Lushness aside, it's the simplicity of the structuring of each track that commands attention. It's also important to know that Luc Gilbert was the musical arranger, not too shabby, considering he was the arranger genius behind Roch Voisine's Hélène and the Cirque du Soleil albums and Ginette Reno's TV shows. Home goes to radio as the first single, an incredible door-opener designed specifically for that important demographic. Also key is Northern Town Sky, Ro By The Gate, To Be Healed and Secrets. The dynamics of the lyrics combined with Ponto's ability to project aural visions of these messages is where the entertainment values lay. This is definitely a five-star album.

- Love Songs

- Jesse Davis

brother Joe provides solid acoustic bass accompaniment and Chuck Redd regales with vibraphone playing unheard since the very early days of Lionel Hampton. As is the hallmark of all truly fine trios, each member contributes distinctively but the final offering is a unified whole. This commentator prefers light jazz in the same way as Scotch . . . straight up, uncomplicated and familiar and that's what you get here. Oh, the tempi and chording can surprise -- Small Hotel with a bossa nova beat, St. Louis Woman with a touch of the tango for example -- but the melodies stay pristine. -BW

First Insight

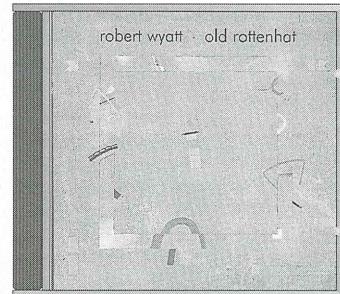

Concord Jazz-4796 (St. Clair Ent.)

It's an agreeable change to listen to an artist playing alto sax instead of the seemingly ubiquitous tenor. Jesse Davis has his instrument well under control and is given more than able assistance by Mulgrew Miller on piano, Ron Carter on bass and Kenny Washington on drums with a programme of his original compositions. And, therein lies the rub. The pieces, though impeccably played, simply aren't up to much and so the enterprise falls into that musical no-man's-land of can't knock, can't praise; only appreciate and

ROBERT WYATT
Nothing Can Stop Us Old Rottenhat
Hannibal Rykodisc-1434

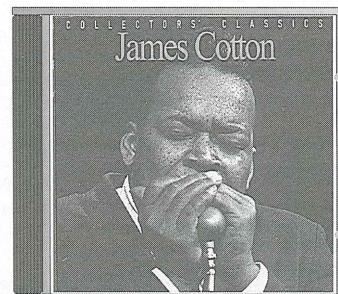

We see where one of the US glossies has given an A rating to Wyatt's earlier albums, Rock Bottom and Stranger Than Richard which were recorded shortly before an accident left him a paraplegic about twenty years ago. Evidently buoyed by their success these two further albums of originals and covers have been issued. One wishes it were possible to give them an A also, even though RPM doesn't rate that way. The fact is though, that there's not really that much to them except

MARC ANTOINE - Flamenco/Jazz Fusion
Madrid
GP-9926-J

The cover art and song titles could lead one to think Iberia. Certainly, there's more than a frisson of flamenco as guitarist Marc Antoine plays his own compositions but there's something else; full orchestrations that subdue his vulpine approach into something akin to cool jazz. It's not far-fetched to suggest that there's a double treat here in the exotica of flamenco teamed with the excitement of modulated jazz. Obviously, we're founders again; just listen and enjoy, as we did. -BW

JAMES COTTON
Seems Like Yesterday
Just A Memory 19382

Montreal used to be a swingin' town before the secession movement began. Many of the better jazz musicians made their way there. Among them was James Cotton, probably when he was still with Muddy Waters and certainly after he went out on his own, tired of trying to be Junior Wells instead of himself. This album is made up of previously unissued material recorded live in 1967 at Montreal's New Penelope Cafe (ah, memories). Cotton is in fine form working his audience with a showbizzy but committed blend of folksy chat, comfortable vocals and blistering harmonica work all ably assisted by fine side musicians. You know James Cotton but we suggest you haven't heard him like this before. Waste no time in doing so. -BW

Empire Hotel

WEA-21399-P

This album has been a long time coming but the wait was worth it. Beats The Hell Out Of Me, taken as the first single, should attract both A/C and country play. Nice cello insert by Kevin Fox on this track. Regina based, the band comprises Jason Plumb (vocals, acoustic and electric guitars), Todd Lumley (piano, organs, synths, accordion), Sean Bryson (drums) and Keith Nakonechny (vocals, bass). The old expression, hand and glove, comes to mind, with the perfected and smooth lead vocals of Plumb, the vocal harmonies and balance of instruments perfected by the producers. The album was produced by the band and Michael Phillip Wojewoda. Various Canadian studios were used for the recording, which perhaps may have contributed to a bit of a difference, all positive by the way. Formed in 1987 this is the band's third album. They don't necessarily show a change in direction from their Lik My Trakter debut, or their second album, Cock's Crew, but there's an air of confidence here that should expand their fan base. Besides the first single, other radio friendly tracks are Empire On The Plains, Middle Of Nowhere and Bloody Love Note. But don't overlook Saskatoon Pie and Cold Rails, and listen closely to the lyrics . . . ingenious. All the material was written by Plumb, with the exception of Middle Of Nowhere, which he wrote with Craig Northey and Steven Drake. All tracks are four parts MAPL. -WG

Growing opposition to dilution of Canadian content system

"It ain't broke, so let's not try to fix it," says David Basskin, executive director of the Canadian Music Publishers Association, (CCMPA), referring to the suggestion that changes be made to the MAPL system.

"The MAPL system has been in place for many years," says Basskin, "and it's done an excellent job in assisting the development of Canadian songwriters and the music publishing and record industries."

Using the MAPL logo, a recording which achieves at least two out of four points automatically qualifies as Cancon.

"Songs are the heart of the music industry," continues Basskin, "and we cannot have a Canadian music industry without a strong base of Canadian songs, Canadian songwriters and Canadian music publishers."

Basskin is concerned that there are some groups who have suggested the CRTC dilute the MAPL standard to a two out of five or even two out of six requirement. "This would fail to recognize the vital role played by songwriters and would be a grievous mistake," chides Basskin. "We stand behind the existing system and, in our intervention to the Commission today (Sept. 15/98), we urge them not to undertake any changes."

Basskin also points out that these issues were fully canvassed in the Commission's hearings on radio regulations last year "and had they seen fit to make changes at that time, they would have done so. There is no need to revisit the question now."

CCMPA's intervention is available on CCMPA's website

www.canadamusic.org

The MAPL logo was created by Stan Klees for RPM in 1970 and is available to Canadian record companies to identify the quantity of Cancon on label copy.

Warner Music Canada sets benchmark with high energy convention

1. Warner Music Canada president Garry Newman pumps up his troops as he opens the company's convention at Deerhurst Resort in Huntsville.

2. Angelo Bomba and Doug Raaflaub of head office with Kelowna's Alison Sage, John Poirier from Halifax, and Vancouver's Charlotte Mauricio as they celebrate in the Four Winds.

3. Candy Higgins of head office and Garry Newman survey Lake Muskoka from the Captain's deck of the RMS Segwun.

4. Warner Music Canada's newest signing Robert Michaels struts his stuff for conventioneers aboard the RMS Segwun as the boat cruised Lake Muskoka.

5. Tara Leonard of head office, Toronto's Melissa Thomas, London's Kathy Hodson and Toronto's Josie Musso take a break from meetings for a breath of fresh air.

6. Jim Cuddy and his band set the tone for the convention with an opening night set in the Marquee Tent (l to r) Warner's Steve Blair and Garry Newman, Cuddy, bandmember Bazil Donovan and Warner's Dave Tollington.

7. Jun Fujimoto of head office, Edmonton's Lina Thorpe, John Poirier from Halifax, Steve Jordan from head office, Vancouver's Peter Moser and Pat Reid from head office.

8. The Goo Goo Dolls, who played the Marquee Tent on the last night of the convention received triple platinum for their contribution of Iris to the City of Angels soundtrack, (l to r) Mike Malinin (band), Pat Magnarella (manager), Robby Takac (band), Herb Forgie and Kim Cooke (Warner Music Canada), John Rzeznik (band), and Ron Morse and Garry Newman (Warner Music Canada).

9. Robby Takac of Goo Goo Dolls enjoys the party at Four Winds.

COUNTRY

Canadian country music is Shania Twain

There was no question, this year's Canadian Country Music Associations awards show, belonged to Shania Twain. Nominated in eight categories, she took six: the CMT Maple Leaf Foods Fans' Choice Award, Video for Don't Be Stupid, Single for You're Still The One, Female Vocalist, Album and Top Selling Album for Come On Over. She missed out on the Vocal/Instrumental Collaboration Award which went to Michelle Wright and Jim Brickman for their duet of Your Love and the SOCAN Song of the Year honours which went to Jason McCoy's Born Again In Dixieland, a song he wrote with Dennis Carr and Naoise Sheridan.

Rumours persisted right up to days before the awards show that Twain would be a no-show and then updated to that she would show, but only as a presenter and not a performer. As it turned out, she did perform a show-stopper of her latest chart-burner Honey, I'm Home. Had Twain not shown, "the show would have suffered considerably," offered one observer.

Camera time for new and established artists appeared to be a priority for the two-hour production, both in the main theatre and backstage where the Wrangler hopefuls each gave a short performance, with the exception of Bruce Guthro, announcing who the other nominees were. Ironically, it was Guthro who won this category.

Terri Clark, who emceed the show with an overabundance of mugging and other strange behavioral antics, had one thing going for her, she was as country as Nashville could make out of a Medicine Hat hat act. At time she looked uncomfortable and her audience reacted accordingly. It's a tough gig, holding the attention of your peers, which, from that standpoint, Clark probably earned an eight out of ten.

There was no denying that this was the biggest night in Canadian country music with a full-house of stars and soon-to-be stars. From Farmer's Daughter to Paul Brandt to Michelle Wright to Charlie Major, Jason McCoy, Julian Austin, Lisa Brokop, Chris Cummings, Gil Grand, Beverley Mahood and Rick Tippe, and hundreds more who weren't on the nomination lists.

The big laughs for the evening came from comic Mike Bullard, conveniently placed by CTV as a presenter. Picking up on Clark's reference to her boobies, which she referred to as "her girls", Bullard quipped "I never wanted to be a foster parent as much as I do right now." Zeroing in on Farmer's Daughter, he said "The last time I saw a farmer's daughter perform was when my dad's car broke down outside an old farm house." He was also quick to zing Twain when he reacted to the Wrangler award, which he was presenting, and the nominees, "As far as I'm concerned, they're all winners because Shania Twain isn't in this category." Unfortunately, Leahy, who won the Vocal Duo or Group Award, were unable to accept due to a tight tour schedule.

The performances by Shania Twain, Paul Brandt, Michelle Wright and Jim Brickman, Farmer's Daughter, Jason McCoy, Julian Austin and Charlie Major were neat, slick and quick with a simple staging effect created mostly with lights. The new production team of Michael Watt, Cliff Dumas and Howard Rosen of Roadhouse Productions, obviously put their apprenticeship with former producer Gordon James to good use. They introduced a few of their own creatives, the most important being the quick look backstage at the rising star nominees doing their thing in front of a casual, obviously fan-based young audience. It was good television.

The Twain stranglehold on the awards was a little disappointing to the industry in general and in particular to the other hopefuls whose only real disappointment was perhaps bruised egos. They reacted however, with that camaraderie spirit that has become so much a part of country music, when on camera, that is. "There were no losers," said one observer. "The fact they had been nominated over so many of their peers makes them winners."

The various Citation and Indie Awards that were presented during Canadian Country Music Week '98 painted a picture of an industry that was in control of itself and which was laying the groundwork for future leaders that should make for an even healthier industry by the time the new millennium rolls around. Warner Music Canada holds first fan fair Warner Music Canada's first fan fair, held during Canadian Country Music Week '98, drew a crowd estimated to be more than 2,000 who showed up at the Southcentre Mall on Sept. 12.

Front and centre on the stage were Paul Brandt, Chris Cummings, Shirley Myers, Cindy Church, George Fox, Gary Fjellgaard and Beverley Mahood, all of whom performed two of their own songs acoustically. The group of seven gathered on stage for the crowd-pleasing finale, Ian Tyson's Four Strong Winds.

Following the performances, each of the artists made a hand print in a

CCMA's President's Dinner honours Canada's country industry movers

The Canadian Country Music Association took the time to once again honour music retailers, record companies and their staffers, managers, agents, producers, music publishers and more at the annual President's Dinner during Canadian Country Music '98 in Calgary (Sept. 13).

Michelle Wright presented Paul Brandt with the CCMA's Humanitarian Award, reminding the audience that Brandt had donated a significant portion of his royalties from the sales of his second album to children's hospitals and that he was closely associated with World Vision, the international hunger relief and child welfare organization.

Radio veteran Bill Anderson, who helped pioneer country music on syndicated radio in Canada was inducted into the CCMA's Industry Hall of Honour and presented with the Stan Klees Industry Builder Award.

Many of the awards went to Alberta individuals and organizations, including the Record Company Person award which went to Ed Harris, who is director of country music marketing for Universal Music Canada; Edmonton's Stony Plain Records as Independent Record Company; Sam the Record Man Store in Calgary's Chinook Centre chosen Record Store of the Year for the third consecutive year; former Calgarian now living in Toronto, CCMA President Tom Tompkins who was chosen Country Music Person of the Year for the second year; and Calgary's Tom Jackson accepted the award for Country Music Event for the Huron Carole Tour which he undertakes every year.

The Leonard T. Rambeau International Award was presented to Jeff Walker who heads a Nashville promotion and publicity company.

Independent artists honoured at Country Music Week

The best from Canada's independent country artists and musicians, as well as country radio stations and broadcasters were presented with Indie, Musician Citation and Broadcast Citation Awards at a luncheon (Sept. 12) during Country Music Week in Calgary.

Ontario band Thomas Wade and Wayward took home three Indie Awards which were first presented last year, winning Independent Group, and the band's single, She's Getting Serious, won as Independent Single, while the song, which Wade wrote with Tim Taylor, was voted Independent Song of the Year. B.C.'s Rick Tippe won the Independent Male Vocalist Award, while Kitchener, Ontario-based Beverley Mahood, won in the Independent Female Vocalist category.

In the Musician Citation Awards, the Back Up Band of the year award went to the Duane Steele
